

Chapter 6: Special Buildings

- Added a section on “Residential Buildings”
- Edited the section on “Residential Garages” so that it addresses historic garages built for commercial and industrial uses
- Added language for the Commission to consider if poor craftsmanship and substandard construction methods hinder the long-term preservation of garages, sheds and other ancillary structures.
- Allow for the construction of carports.
- Modified language for new parking garages; noting that the preferred material for walls that are visible from the public right-of-way is brick (not necessarily for the entire structure)
